AI COACH

UX/AI CONSULTANT

I believe in the transformative power of Design Thinking, not just as a tool, but as a mindset that empowers us to be more open to see the world through others' eyes. My journey in consulting has been a constant quest to unravel complex problems through empathy and creativity. Whether it's Service Design or Visual Ethnography, I approach each challenge with the curiosity of a researcher and the heart of a storyteller. It's not just about finding answers; it's about first exploring the right questions.

True leadership, for me, is participatory. It's about creating spaces where voices can be heard and ideas can flourish. In my workshops and team engagements, I don't just lead; I facilitate a journey where every participant becomes a contributor. This transforms groups into teams, fostering safe spaces where innovation isn't just born, but nurtured and celebrated.

In a world increasingly driven by technology, I champion the cause of ethical AI with Ergonomics. To me, the intersection of AI and user experience isn't just an academic interest; it's a moral imperative. I delve into qualitative & quantitative research to ensure that our technological advances remain grounded in human-centric values. Our future with AI should enhance, not overshadow, the human experience.

ETHICAL AI MICRO HABIT DESIGN

Using (GDPR compliant) data from the Satellite Scan research, I currently design micro-habits of behaviour for leaders to adapt their communication habits in the most challenging situations. A common use case is for giving or receiving “psychologically safe” feedback. This is done by combining the individual coaching data with ergonomic AI prompt engineering to empower the coachee to mine their own data ad infinitum.

AI PROMPT ENGINEERING

AI PERSONAL DEVELOPMENT PROMPT ENGINEERING

I have done over 2 years of design thinking research around AI prompt engineering to extract useful communication behavioural data to create powerful reflection questions, creative inputs for logotherapy (therapy) and suggestions of new communication behaviours as micro-habit-loops (coaching).

WRITING

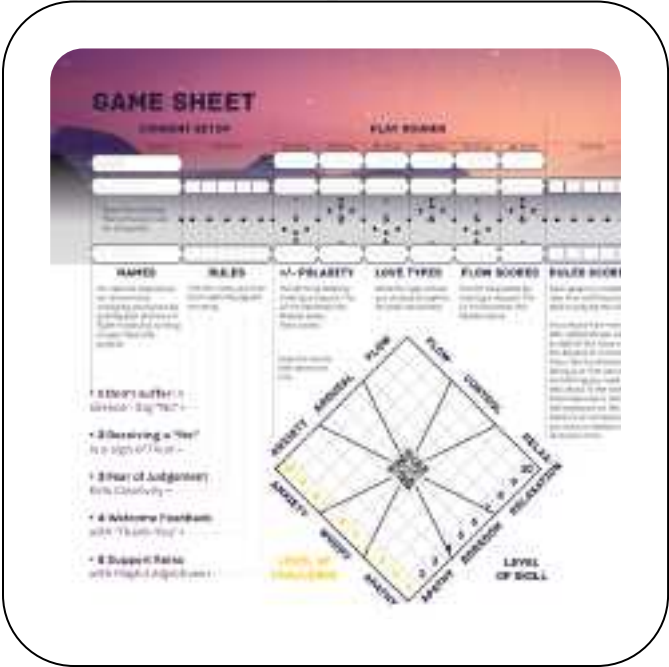

I am currently writing a book called "50 shades of Green": a short collection of relatable stories based on snapshots of ordinary humans demonstrating tangibly inspiring examples of trust-building (green) communication collected in over 20 years of ethnographic research around the world. This is different to the common books from expert communicators like diplomats from different social bubbles. The creative aspect will come from stories shared by everyday life examples from each of the people in the book.

OPTIMISTIC SOCIAL MEDIA CONTENT

When measured in an online survey using Typeform, the most conflictually triggering topic which Employees 🗨️ Leaders 🗨️ Coaches 🗨️ Investors and 🚀 Startups found consistently challenging, annoying, triggering or uncomfortable to talk about at work from was other people’s non-verbal behaviours. In line with Rutger Bregman’s optimism-generating book “Humankind”, I aim to show how many conflicts are simple to transform into creative tensions.

ONE VISUAL DETAILED

After working with conflict investigation, mediation and transformation, I am currently writing book (working title "50 shades of Green"). A short collection of sotries of everyday invisible heros demonstrating positive examples of non-violent verbal communication, non-verbal microhabits of behaviours.
